DIFFERENT PERSPECTIVES BRING DEPTH TO A PROJECT

When two people put their heads together, the potential for creating something new, creative, and exciting increases exponentially. Their product is almost certain to be superior to what either could have created alone.

Written works benefit when partners explore one another's perspectives.

Committing to a respectful partnership makes it easier for partners to step back and consider alternatives when their perspectives differ.

Author Insight

A Partnership May Expand One's Options

One reason to partner is to bring a wider variety of skills to a project. Another is to expand one's options. Partners have different perspectives, different resources, and different contacts that broaden the partnership's outlook, extend its vision, and increase its opportunities.

Book Excerpt

A, B, & Cs of Author Partnering

Most individuals want to participate in the decisions that affect their lives. Partners prefer collaborative decision-making to the traditional top-down approach of those in charge determining what is to be done, when, and by whom.<sup>16</sup> They appreciate the freedom to pursue diverse activities such as professional and personal self-development and service to the local community. Partners want to engage in meaningful and ethical work and may choose an option that pays less because it provides opportunities for sharing, hope, and paying forward to society. Partners who determine what is meaningful in life and work remain enthusiastic, maintain a high level of morale, and achieve positive project outcomes.
