CELEBRATING OUR COUNTRY

For those who have been around more than just a few years, we recognize that our country has grown and evolved over the years into a different place. Priorities have shifted; the environment has changed; motivations and values are not as clear and focused as they once were.

This holiday weekend is our opportunity to celebrate what is most important to each of us... the aspects of the U S of A that resonate the most in our hearts.

Value the variety in our lives; the differences among cultures, the vastness and uniqueness of our geography. Celebrate whatever it is that unites us.

Heed the wise words of this unknown sage. If we all do what she recommends, we can expect the best outcomes.

4th of July

Fireworks! No 4th of July celebration would be complete without a dazzling display of light and color to remind us of the exciting new world of opportunity that our forefathers founded.

Book Excerpt

Silent Struggle

The display was spectacular, fascination etched on every child's face as the continual bursts of light danced like fingers through the sky. When the last explosion of color had faded away, Mr. Grayfox stoked the fire and threw on a few more logs. Everyone gathered around the roaring flames, sitting on quilts, the grass, or chairs pulled from around the sawhorse tables
